STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

The steamer Montauk of the P. and O. Steamship Line, which will be put on the run between Knight's Key and Key West, has arrived at Knight's Key. The Montauk is a modern sea vessel and will become quite popular with the traveling public.

Mr. George La Fortune, for many years boatman in the waters of Nassau, St. Mary's and St. John's rivers, has mysteriously disappeared, and his whereabouts are beyond the discovery of many who have been in search of him or his body for the past several days.

Last Sunday as Mr. Clarence W. Williamson was crossing Orange river near his home, his attention was attracted by some object floating in the water. He went and pulled the object out and was horrified to find the unconscious body of his little son. The father grasped the child in his arms and ran to the house. Dr. Brecht of this city was summoned and in little over an hour's time the faithful physician was there and began the work of reviving the child. Dr. D. F. Buck happened along a short time after the accident occurred, and was working to revive the child when Dr. Brecht arrived. Between them they succeeded in bringing the little fellow around, and made the fond parents happy by restoring him to life. It was a narrow escape, however, and caused a great shock to the father and mother. Fort Myers Press.

George Seeley, a young white man of Jacksonville, is held at police headquarters upon a charge of alleged embezzlement. He was employed as a bookkeeper by the Gulf Refining Company and when he left was $9 short. About a week ago Seeley went to the Kaufman Metal Works and applied for work, when he was sent out to buy empty oil barrels. Monday night the young man visited the warehouse of the metal company and finding the negro night-watchman told him his plan, which was to sell out a large number of the company's barrels and sell them back to the company in the morning. The negro watchman refused to take part in the affair and reported the scheme to Mr. Kaufman in the morning, with the result that Seeley soon found himself under arrest. The specific charge against him is the embezzlement of $9 from the Gulf Refining Company.

The body of Samuel Parks, colored, an employe of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, was found late Friday afternoon in a swamp east of Pensacola, through the faithfulness of a hunting dog owned by the negro. Parks was either murdered or accidentally shot. Last Monday he went out hunting, and Monday night he did not return to his home. The dog, Tuesday morning, returned home, and, after being fed, left at once, and was not again seen until that night, when it again appeared and, upon receiving food, left immediately. The family of the negro became uneasy over his absence and the strange actions of the dog, but Wednesday morning fed the dog when it was seen at the house, and a short time afterwards noticed the animal again disappeared. As the owner had not then returned home, they decided that if the dog should again return they would follow it. Thursday afternoon the animal was found at the house and after receiving food started away. It was followed, and about three miles from the city the dog went into some thick underbrush. The party following there found the body of the master of the animal, with a portion of the head carried away by a charge of shot. The gun with which he had been hunting was found upon the ground about twenty feet distant, and the authorities are at a loss to understand whether the death of the negro was caused by an accident or murder.

YOUNG MAN KILLS SELF.

Young Man at Canton, Ga., Took an Overdose of Morphine.

Canton, Ga., Dec. 31.—Bob Bandan, a young man of about thirty years of age, committed suicide at the home of his father, Sam Duncan, in Canton, by taking an overdose of morphine. No cause is assigned.

His roommate, however, says Duncan remarked a few minutes before taking the drug that if he had a gun "he would blow his brains out."

Duncan took a headache tablet or powder and then swallowed the contents of a phial of morphine, which had its deadly effect in spite of the efforts of a doctor.

Duncan was one of the finest marble workers in this section. He leaves two small children, orphaned, as his wife, a Miss Donaldson, died a few years ago.

Mills Close Down.

Uncasville, Conn., Dec. 30.—Notice has been posted in the cotton mills of the Uncasville Manufacturing company, in Montville and Versailles, announcing the mills would close until Jan. 6 to relieve conditions in the cloth market. This, it is stated, is the first time in twenty years that this company has curtailed production on account of business depression. About 500 hands are employed in both concerns.

Depositions in Pettibone Case.

Boise, Ida., Dec. 31.—The defense in the trial of George A. Pettibone, charged with complicity in the murder of former Governor Steunenberg, spent all of Monday's session in the reading of depositions of San Francisco witnesses on the explosion in the Bradley residence which Harry Orchard claimed was the result of his placing a bomb under the door mat in the vestibule of the residence. The depositions were taken at San Francisco during the Haywood trial and by stipulation were introduced as evidence in the present trial. By holding hours past the usual time for adjournment, all the depositions were read and on Monday the defense began the examination of witnesses.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Safe Medicine for Children.

In buying a cough medicine for children, never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is always sure to follow. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and there is no better medicine in the world for these diseases. It is not only a certain cure for croup, but, when given as soon as the croup cough appears, will prevent the attack. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given as directed. It contains no opium or other harmful drugs, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

Claims Japs Mapped Portland City.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 31.—Mayor Harry K. Lane created a sensation Friday in an address before the National Guard association, when he declared that agents of the Japanese government had secured accurate maps of the city of Portland, maps and specifications of every roadway leading into the city and various pipe lines from which the city obtains its water supply. Mayor Lane did not discover the presence of the alleged spies until their work was completed, whereupon he transmitted his information to Washington and was asked to furnish all the details of the operations of the alleged spies.

Woman's Attempt to Suicide at Last Proves Successful.

New York, Dec. 31.—Mrs. Mollie Desmond, who attempted to commit suicide some time ago by swallowing a package of 144 needles, died Monday after physicians had made twenty-five surgical operations upon her, and had removed all but a dozen of the needles.

Domestic troubles induced Mrs. Desmond to try this extraordinary method of suicide in June, 1906, when she swallowed a set of needles varying in size from a darning needle, to the smallest used in fine sewing. She had been an inmate of a hospital ever since, and the physicians have made a search for the needles as they moved about in her body, threatening vital organs. In all, 132 of them were removed.

Left Party and Killed Himself.

New York, Dec. 31.—Jas. B. Ford, of Williamsburg, left a children's Christmas party at the house of a friend Sunday night, walked out on [illegible] and shot himself. He died within a few minutes. Ford took a number of boxes of candy to the party and seemed to enjoy himself. Just before he went out of the house he told his friends that the merriment of the children made him sad because it reminded him of his wife who had died several years ago, and the home which death had caused to be broken up.

Art Society to Begin Campaign.

New York, Dec. 31.—The Municipal Art Society of New York is about to begin a campaign to spread its ideas throughout the country. The society stands ready to give all assistance in its power to any city that desires to form a society with the object of beautifying cities, and announces that arrangements have been made to send lecturers who will speak on municipal art. The society will also send out literature on the subject of beautification of cities, and will attempt to interest local boards of trade and like organizations throughout the country.

Lord Brampton's Innocent Ways.

Lord Brampton, Sir Henry Hawkins, was a picturesque figure who for years gave variety and spice to the dull routine of the English courts. Some of his lordship's ways were unpleasant. When Lord Brampton wanted to get a case finished no one could more quickly grasp the intricacies than he. When, however, he meant a case to last then he was the high priest of innocence. There was not a game or trick at cards with which he was not familiar, yet when the counsel mentioned the ace of spades, "Ace of spades? What is an ace of spades?" cooed his lordship. "It—er—it's one of a pack of cards, of—er—playing cards, m'lud," gasped counsel, taken aback. "Really, then I must ask you to put it in," said Hawkins. A solicitor's clerk was sent flying to a stationer's to get a pack of cards. Upon his return the ace was extracted and counsel handed it up. "M'lud, this piece of card is one of fifty-two such cards which are called playing cards," said counsel. "The card which I now venture to ask your lordship to examine is called the ace of spades." Hawkins took the card, examined it curiously, marked it, placed it with his notes. "Thank you. Proceed, please," he said. With legal expenses averaging $5 a minute this little byplay would cost a fifty dollar bill."

University of Paris.

The doctor's degree in the University of Paris is so entitled as to designate the faculty under which the work was done, as those who do literary work would receive the degree doctor of letters, etc. To obtain the doctor's degree the candidate must possess the lower degree of the corresponding division of work, submit two theses on different questions, reply to questions or objections concerning them, pay a fee of 140 francs and present 100 printed copies of one of his theses to the university. The candidate for the degree doctor of letters must write one thesis in Latin, the other in French. If in the scientific department, the thesis must be on some original investigation; if in theology, the examinations are both oral and written.—School Bulletin.

DISCOVERY OF COAL.

Mentioned by a Jesuit in 1679 and Mined First in 1749.

So far as known the first mention of the occurrence of coal in the United States is contained in the journal of Father Hennepin, a Jesuit missionary, who in 1679 recorded a "cole mine" on Illinois river near the present city of Ottawa, Ill.

Coal was first mined in the Richmond basin, Virginia, about seventy years after Father Hennepin's discovery in Illinois, but the first records of production from the Virginia mines were for the year 1822, when, according to one authority, 54,000 tons were mined.

Ohio probably ranks second in priority of production, as coal was discovered there in 1755, but the records of production date back only to 1838.

The mining of anthracite in Pennsylvania began about 1790, and it is said that fifty-five tons were shipped to Columbia, Pa., in 1807. Reports of the anthracite coal trade are usually begun with the year 1820, when 365 tons, one for each day of the year, were shipped to Philadelphia from the Lehigh region. Before this, however, in 1814, a shipment of twenty-two tons was made from Carbondale, also to Philadelphia. It is probable that the actual production prior to 1820 was between 2,500 and 3,000 tons.—Washington Star.

An Insidious Danger.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first sign of trouble, as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. J. W. McCollum & Co.

Nests of the Golden Eagle.

Every pair of eagles whose habits I have had an opportunity of watching over a period of a few years would seem to have invariably at least two alternative sites for their nests. Some have three, and I know of one with four sites. In fact, I only know of one pair out of many which habitually resort to but one place and only one. The reason for this is, however, apparent, for owing to its situation it has never been disturbed. The nest is in a small cavern on the face of an absolute wall of limestone rock some 800 feet high, at about 400 feet from the summit. Above the cliff is a talus of loose stone at an angle of forty-five degrees or so, above which again rise other precipices. To reach the nearest point above the nest would be a long day's work.—London Saturday Review.

How to Avoid Pneumonia.

You can avoid pneumonia and other serious results from a cold by taking Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough and expels the cold from the system as it is mildly laxative. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. J. W. McCollum & Co.

Sarcastic.

"No, sir," said the self made man, "I don't believe in hiding my light under a bushel."

"I don't blame you," rejoined the home grown cynic. "It would be wasteful when a pint cup is more than ample."—Chicago News.

DECAY OF STONE.

Even the Densest Siliceous Rocks Succumb to Time.

Whoever expects to find a stone that will stand from century to century, deriding alike the frigid rains and scorching solar rays, without need of reparation will indeed search for "the philosopher's stone." There is scarcely a substance which after having been exposed to the action of the atmosphere for a considerable time does not exhibit proofs of weathering. It may even be observed on the most densely compacted siliceous rocks. The fullest extent of this inquiry can only be to elucidate relative duration and comparative labor of appropriation to useful or ornamental purposes.

By examining the various productions of nature we find evident proofs of her industry in all ages. Changes have been going on from the remotest antiquity to the present time on every substance that comes within our observation. All the actual combinations of matter have had a former existence in some other state. Nothing exists in nature but what is likely to change its condition and manner of being. No material is so durable as always to retain its present appearance, for the most solid and compact bodies have not such a degree of impenetrability and so close a union of the parts which compose them as to be exempted from ultimate dissolution.

Even in the great globe which we inhabit nothing is more evident to geologists than a perpetual series of alterations. There can be discovered no vestige of a beginning, no prospect of an end. In some bodies these changes are not so frequent and remarkable as in others, though equally certain at a more distant period. The venerable remains of Egyptian splendor, many of them executed in the hardest granite between 3,000 and 4,000 years since, exhibit large portions of exfoliation and gradual decay, thereby following the primitive, immutable and universal order of causes and effects—namely, that all objects possess the materials of which they are composed only for a limited time, during which some powerful agent effects their decomposition and sets the elementary particles at liberty again to form other equally perfect combinations. Thus by divine and unerring laws order is restored amid apparent confusion.—Exchange.

DIDN'T ASK ENOUGH.

Lawyer Should Have Probed His Witness a Little Deeper.

A small but distinguished company of English lawyers sat talking over times. Among them was Mr. S., who told the following story:

"I was retained," he said, "by an ex-soldier to sue for the recovery of £35 which he had lent to a friend. The latter Mr. J. was counsel for the defendant. J. cross examined the plaintiff in his usual forcible way.

"'You lent him the money?' Mr. J. asked.

"'I did, sir.'

"'It was your own money?'

"'It was, sir.'

"'When did you lend him the money?'

"'In July.'

"'Where did you get that money, sir?'

"'I earned it, sir.'

"'You earned it, eh? When did you earn it?'

"'During the Boer war, sir,' he said in a very humble tone.

"'You earned it during the Boer war? Pray what was your occupation during the war?' Mr. J. inquired.

"'Fighting, sir,' the man replied modestly.

"'Oh, fighting!' Mr. J. said, somewhat taken down.

"I smiled triumphantly. Mr. J. was very angry. Well, we went to the jury, and I, of course, had the last to say. I sailed away to glory. I spoke of the war, of the lives which it cost us, of the awful battles which helped to build up the glory of our nation, of the self denial and bravery of our men, who left home and wife and children and father and mother and everything that was dear to them and went forth to the fight. I worked up the jury and got a verdict for the full amount. As we were quitting the courtroom Mr. J. said:

"'S., your war speech gained you the verdict. If you hadn't discovered through my cross examination that the man had fought in the Boer war, you would have been beaten.'

"'My friend,' I replied, 'if you had only asked the man which side he fought on you might be going home with a verdict. My client served under the Boer flag.'"

MODERN PAPER.

Not So Good or Lasting as the Old Fashioned Kind.

"The men who wrote history on tablets of stone in ages gone had a difficult task to perform and had to cultivate the habit of brevity," says a writer in a German paper, "but what they wrote was preserved. It will be different with the newspapers and books of the present time. The paper upon which they are printed will disintegrate in a few years and the records—historical, scientific and literary—will become dust.

"I saw two papers recently which told the whole story. One contained an account of the death of Napoleon Bonaparte. It was printed in 1821, was in a state of perfect preservation and looked as though it might last with ordinary care a hundred years. The other paper was kept because its leading article described the surrender of Sedan, which had taken place a day before. Although it had been printed nearly fifty years later, the Sedan paper had to be handled carefully to prevent its tearing in the creases. One of these papers was printed on old fashioned paper and the other on the modern kind.

"With the two specimens before me I cannot refrain from urging once more that a few numbers of all books and newspapers, enough for all first class libraries, be printed on good paper for the benefit of those who will live after us."

Power of Habit.

The power of habit was strikingly illustrated not long ago in a shirt waist factory. One woman who had done nothing but sew up the seams of sleeves for four years was taken off that particular job and was asked to run up seams in the body of the waists. She complained that the change made her so nervous that she could not work.

"But what is the difference?" asked the foreman. "There is nothing but a straight seam here, just the same as you have been used to."

"I know," replied the woman with true feminine logic, "but it isn't sleeves."

And it did indeed prove to be a fact that owing to her four years of steady work on sleeves it took her fully that many weeks to overcome her nervousness sufficiently to run the machine at her accustomed speed when sewing another part of the waist.—Exchange.

Elder (discussing the new minister's probation discourse)—In my opeenion he wasna justified in dividing folk into the sheep and the goats. I wadna just say, Jamie, that I was among the unco guid, an' I wadna say that you were among the unco bad. So what do we come in? He'll no do for us, Jamie. We'll no vote for him.—London Punch.

THE FUR SEAL.

A Sea Animal With Heart, Liver and Kidneys Like a Sheep.

The fur seal is a land animal of perverted tastes, who, living at sea, has had his jaws changed into flippers very like the long black kid gloves of a woman. His heart, liver and kidneys are exactly the same as those of a sheep and just as good to eat; but his flesh, although just like fat mutton to look at, is rank and distasteful from his habit of eating fish. The whole package is put up in a parcel of thick white fat to keep the body warm, while from the skin grows a heavy crop of beautiful brown fur, protected with large flat oil bearing hairs, making a glossy surface which slides through the water without friction.

Perfectly fearless, overflowing with fun, a perfect little athlete, marvelously strong, the furseal is the most delightful of all wild creatures. But, although they live at sea, the seals, being heavily clothed in fat, skin and hair, find the temperate latitudes much too warm for comfort during the summer months. Since they cannot shed their garments like ourselves, they migrate to a subarctic climate, gathering in immense multitudes where there are fisheries to support them. Their ration is fifty pounds of cod every day, which for a creature the size of a sheep is considerable.—Exchange.

A STORY OF THE SEA.

The Man Who Braved the Storm and the Sailor He Rescued.

Off the coast of Ireland there was a terrible storm, and a crowd gathered on the shore to see a storm tossed vessel not far away being pounded on the rocks.

Sturdy men launched a boat and pulled away at the oars to rescue the imperiled ones.

As the boat came back the watchers on the shore cried, "Did you get them?" and they answered: "All but one. We had to leave him or risk the lives of all." And when they were landed a stalwart fellow stepped from the group and said, "Who will join me in the rescue of the remaining one?"

Then an aged woman cried out: "Oh, my son, don't go; don't go! You are all I have left. Your father was drowned at sea, and your brother William sailed away, and we never heard from him, and now if you are lost I will be left in sorrow alone."

But the man replied: "I must go, mother. Duty calls me." Then he and other brave hearts launched the boat and pulled for the wreck.

Anxiously the mother waited in tears and prayers. At last they saw the lifeboat coming nearer and nearer, and when it was in hailing distance they called, "Have you got your man?"

And the answer rang out clear above the storm, "Yes, and tell mother it's brother William!"

Why

Should your baby suffer? When he is fretful and restless, don't experiment on him and use any old thing your neighbor recommends. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, greatest known worm medicine and cure for children's diseases. It is mild in its action, builds up the system, makes thin, puny babies fat. Mrs. J. C. Smith, Tampa, Fla., writes: "My baby was thin and sickly, could not retain its food and cried all night. I used one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and in a few days baby was laughing, happy and well." Sold by W. W. Johnson.

First Aid In Accidents.

A country boy knows that the fine dust of brown fungi he calls puffballs will stop bleeding. When he cuts himself he hunts for one of these if the cut is not serious. If the cut is deep it is wise to bathe it in warm water with carbolic in it or a tablet of chloride of mercury dissolved in the water. Carefully remove all foreign matter in the washing and then, pinching the lips of the cut together, put on strips of adhesive plaster. Be sure to leave little spaces for pus to run out. This running of pus is a natural process and is not alarming unless persistent and the pus comes in unreasonable quantities. Sometimes the blood flows so rapidly that you cannot close the wound with plaster. If so tie a bandage tightly above the wound before you attend to the wound itself. This will stop the flow of blood, and, nature having formed her clot, you can do your part with plaster.—Harper's.

The Joy

Of living is to have good health. Use Herbine and you will have bushels of joy. You need not be blue, fretful and have that bad taste in your mouth. Try a bottle of Herbine, a positive cure for all liver complaints. E. Harrell, Austin, Texas, writes: "I have used Herbine for over a year, and find it a fine regulator. I gladly recommend it as a fine medicine for dyspepsia." For sale by W. M. Johnson.

Keeping constantly at it is the key to successful advertising.

You cannot spurt much and win. A business career that goes by fits and starts will not pay so well in the long run as a business that follows a course mapped out for it and keeps increasing its advertising as the business demands it until the maximum is reached. There is a maximum for a small business beyond which it is not economy or policy to go.—Brookline Chronicle.

Our columns furnish the key to successful advertising in this community.

Chas. B. King, land agent of the McNair & Wade Company, with headquarters in Perry, Taylor county, was among those who spent yesterday in this city, having come on business connected with the United States land office.

The "Chimes of Normandy" is one of the prettiest operas ever staged, and it will be presented tonight by the best company that has ever visited Gainesville, Mr. Harry Lea Velle's "Beggar Prince" Opera Company. Seats on sale at Miller's.

The Sun has been requested to announce that the prayer-meeting at the First Baptist church Thursday evening will prove an unusually interesting one, looking toward the success of the coming year. The theme at this meeting will be, "How to Serve." The prayer service will be in charge of Deacon Robt. McClellan.

Dr. Harry L. Jarvis, dentist, formerly of this city, where he was reared, but now of Dalton, Ga., who is spending his vacation here, is well pleased with the progress of Gainesville since leaving here. Dr. Jarvis says he lives in the best town in Georgia, but that he believes Gainesville to be the best town in the South, in proportion to population.

T. W. Winn, the clever and efficient lumber inspector for Phillips and McEachern, stopped over here for a few hours en route from Jacksonville, where he has been inspecting a quantity of lumber loaded for Philadelphia. Tom, who is a good fellow and a subscriber to The Sun, has many friends here who are always glad to see him—but seldom have an opportunity, as he sticks to his post with remarkable regularity.

Beginning with today's issue The Sun inaugurates a classified advertisement department, in which all advertising in the line of "to rent," "help wanted," etc., will hereafter appear under its proper heading. The rate has been placed as low as possible, and no deviation from the same will be made. If you want to rent a house, have a house to rent, or buy or sell anything, patronize this classified advertising column.

Among the prominent visitors from the East End who spent Monday in the county capital was Dr. J. B. Curtis of Orange Heights, who came on a brief visit to his friend, H. S. Graves, North Gainesville. Dr. Curtis owns one of the handsomest pecan groves in this section of the State, and is regarded as authority of pecan culture. He states, however, that the crop was far short this season, owing to the continued drought through the spring and summer. The fruit was fine, however.

Col. Geo. A. Jobes of Greenville, O., who has been here on a visit to his family for the past few days, has gone to St. Augustine, from whence he will return to his home. Mrs. Jobes and children have been pleasantly located here for some time at the home of Mrs. Robt McClellan, having been attracted here by the superior educational advantages offered by the University and high school. Col. Jobes is a prominent lawyer of Ohio. This was his first visit here, and he was well pleased.
